Foreword

It has become the custom for the editor of the "Gothic," in behalf of the Senior Class, to present to the Head Master on Class Day a copy of the "Gothic," containing the record of the activities of its members and their hopes for the future. I value these Year Books highly for as I turn their pages there comes before me once more the faces of those who sojourned with us for a season and left pleasant memories behind.

Needless to say, I shall treasure most of all this Year Book. With rare thoughtfulness you have most graciously dedicated this edition to one who was a stranger to you, but who had a deep and abiding interest in the school. In a world where we see so much of self-seeking and hypocrisy, her utter unselfishness and absolute sincerity have throughout the years been my inspiration and my guide.

Over the portal of one of our schools are these words: "Let thy life be sincere." I never see them without thinking of Mrs. Rich.

None knew her but to love her,
None named her but to praise.

HERBERT T. RICH

MRS. HERBERT T. RICH

Dedication

To Mabelle Jenney Rich, who was our friend, we, the Class of 1938 of Brighton High School, do dedicate this book with affectionate admiration and esteem.

She lived graciously, and nobly exemplified in the beauty of her character those great virtues of courage, integrity, unselfishness, and high service which it shall be our life-long endeavor to emulate.

THE QUEST

Youthful knight with armor gleaming
Shining sword and restless steed,
Setting forth with bright eyes beaming,
Certain that you will succeed,
There are rock strewn roads before you,
But your courage cannot fail,
Go! Your spirits brave implore you,
Go, and seek the Holy Grail.

Many knights, oh, so much stronger,
On adventures are away,
Knights who've battled so much longer;
You are setting forth today.
They still seek, and now you gravely
Start your quest in maiden mail,
Following the gleam, and bravely
Join the searchers for the Grail.

Other knights, yes, princes royal
Valiantly pursued their aim,
Brave they were, and ever loyal,
Widespread long has been their fame.
Though their tasks are uncompleted,
For with each success they fail,
In each victory defeated,
Still they seek the long-lost Grail.

Let your quest be one of kindness
Not a selfish one of greed,
Struggle forward, not in blindness,
Thinking only of the deed.
Kind and brave, and generous giving,
Make your life a glorious tale.
Knight, the joys that you are living
Prove to be your mystic Grail.

Class Ode

(Tune of the Princeton Alma Mater—Orange and Black)

FAREWELL

Alma Mater, ere we leave thee,
Let us gaze with misting eyes
On thy noble form, majestic,
On thy towers that deck the skies.

Temple, thou, of human learning,
Faith and knowledge, wisdom, truth,
In thy shelter we have dallied,
With the thoughtlessness of youth.

Now our hearts are filled with sorrow,
As farewell we grieve to say.
Thou hast held thy beacon 'fore us;
Light us still upon our way.

Through thy portals we must wander—
Some to conquer, some to fade;
Guiding hands must now surrender,
We alone ourselves must aid.

To thy servants we are thankful,
For their teachings, sound and true;
May their labors be rewarded
In the course our lives pursue.

Rugged ways now lie before us,
Where the seeds of knowledge fell;
May we reap abundant harvest!
　　Alma Mater, dear, farewell!

Editor's Note

Your 1938 Gothic is a pictorial review of the Senior Class' history of the past year. We of the staff, have found that simplicity in design and vividness in material are the best ways in which to depict the events of a modern high school year.

If this volume of the Gothic is accepted with a small fraction of the pleasure which the staff enjoyed during its entire making, we of the staff shall feel that our work has been well repaid.

Senior Outing

OF all the tender memories from our school days, that will rush back to gladden lonely moments later in our lives, the happiest memory of all will be that of our Senior Outing. The outing is a day for pleasure, when students who have only known each other during days of school routine get together for a real frolic.

From the time we scrambled for seats in the crowded electric cars until we were finally settled on the sturdy white Nantasket boat gliding out into the blue waters of Boston Harbor, we were just as excited as children who have been promised a picnic.

With the long, cool boat ride the fun began. The jolly crowd on deck found amusement in almost everything from playing ball to singing, while inside others tried to get their "sea legs" to dance to the music of a "swingy" orchestra, and alas for the poor girl who hadn't learned how to do the "Big Apple!"

Even the long hike from the boat to the Ocean Gardens was fun. No one minded a long walk because the company was so happy and light-hearted.

When we arrived at our destination, our first thought (which is not unusual for Brighton) was of lunch. So we settled down on the stone wall, or on the sand, or at tables inside the Ocean Gardens, and ate just a small portion of the enormous luncheons we had packed. And we had thought we'd be so hungry!

After lunch there was the most thrilling baseball game ever — the Faculty vs. the Students. Then we were all anxious for a dip in the inviting waves that lapped at the golden sand and urged us to come in.

Later we rambled down the road to Paragon Park and started to use up a few of the amusement tickets on the long strips we had bought before leaving. There was a great deal of ticket-trading between heroic chaps who weren't satisfied with one ride on the roller-coaster and timid little girls who preferred "Hilarity Hall" or the Merry-go-Round.

We returned for supper at the Ocean Gardens, and were entertained by the best of Brighton talent. There was more dancing after supper, and then more of Paragon Park. The boys and men teachers, and the girls and the women teachers competed at bowling. Quite a number of students went roller-skating, and the rest used up their remaining amusement tickets.

It grew late, but the fun wasn't over. The boat trip back was even more delightful than the one going across. There was dancing, and no one seemed too tired to dance again.

Yes, indeed, if there was one day that was crowded with pleasant memories it was the day of the Senior Outing. With all school worries put aside, teachers and students had a chance to become better acquainted and find out what delightful companions they all could be.

The Senior Prom

PERHAPS you recall the afternoon of May 17 when after 2:30 not a single senior class member remained in the building. Why? Because that was the day when chivalrous escorts ushered delicately gowned girls to the Brighton High School Promenade. Yes, the crowning event of the school year fell on that memorable day. School girls and boys hurried home till the soft spring evening brought forth visions of maiden loveliness squired by dignified gentlemen precisely attired in natty blue and cream. When a stimulating drive through balmy spring air brought the enthusiastic couples to the gilded entrance of the Hotel Bradford. The scintillating staircase glided swiftly beneath expectant feet, and before our happy eyes lay the magnificent ballroom. Softly shaded lights traced a dapple symphony of rose and black on the delightfully stenciled walls. Flickering jets of rosy light danced on a swirling sea of heads. Candid chandeliers of immense pattern were suspended like magnified swords of Damocles.

Then came the Grand March led by the class president, Russell Suter, and his fair partner, followed by glowing girls with their proud escorts.

Soon with a glorious exhilaration, tossed on the rhythm waves of Ken Reeves orchestra, we glided through a delightful riot of shadowy color and so through an evening never to be forgotten. We floated beneath a black and orange Brighton banner midst a colorful medley of dance diversions ably directed by maestro Ken Reeves for whose merry melodies we extend our heartfelt thanks to the Executive Committee composed of: Marie Sullivan, Paul Mann, and Edmund Belekewicz, who were so ably assisted by Mr. John Fuller.

An anticipated interval brought cooling refreshments, then dreaming through the closing waltz, the seniors departed reluctantly down the stairway, through the cushioned lobby, and out into the most memorable evening of the senior high school career.

Class Day

More brilliant, gayer, more resplendent than its august and solemn brother, Graduation Day, Class Day lives in the minds of all alumni as the most vivid memory of their school career.

Ranged in orderly formation, as priests officiating at High Mass of some great cathedral, stand the students of the Junior Class on one side, the students of the graduating Senior Class on the other. At the top of the court framed in the impressive setting of the great oak doors of the school, sits Margaret Helmar, the Spirit of Brighton High, robed in white and looking like some beautiful Priestess of the ancient Druids of Gaul.

Now steps forward the Class Herald, Paul Cornet, to read the Address.

"Hear ye! Hear ye! Parents and friends and comrades! We, the Class of 1938, gladly welcome you on this our festive day. For four happy years Brighton High School has been our Alma Mater. Now we stand at the open door, ready to leave her sheltering walls for the great adventure of life. Ere we say a courageous "All Hail!" to the unknown future, we pause for a sad and grateful farewell to our loved school. Let the Juniors, who will so soon move forward into our places, now join the Seniors in singing "Alma Mater" in tribute to Brighton High School."

The familiar strains of the old School song swell mightily in the June Breeze.

"Some among us merit especial recognition for high scholastic achievement which brings them well deserved rewards, and reflects honor on their school.

Let the winner of the Anna Judson George Scholarship for excellence in English receive from the spirit of her Alma Mater the symbol of her victory."

Bertha Olsen now comes forward to receive her well-earned award.

"Let the winners of the Brighthelmstone Club Scholarships receive the meed of their intellectual conquests from the spirit of Brighton High School."

Shirley Levine, Adella Lebyoda, Joseph Volante, and Andrew Jeon, Brighthelmstone Scholarship winners, are presented with appropriate symbols of their success by the Spirit. They receive one hundred dollars which, according to the provisions of the trust fund, must be applied to their tuition bills in the respective colleges which they enter.

"Let the Senior and Junior honor students unite in placing the laurels of their attainments at the feet of their Alma Mater."

The Senior Honor Roll students, carrying laurel bands, move into the presence of the Spirit. These are:

"We now also bestow praise on two members of the Senior Class who while interested in athletics, have set a worthy example to their classmates in promoting the spirit of good sportsmanship and honorable conduct in all their activities. Let them come forward.

Eileen Flynn and Eliot Segal then step forward and receive the symbols of this distinction amidst great applause.

"To one school are we loyal, and in our loyalty, we are united. But we are "many members in one body." Our various courses give opportunity for the full development of various powers.

Let the representative of our Co-operative Course appear, to pay homage to our Alma Mater.

Let next a member of our Commercial Course render grateful acknowledgement to her.

To these two let here be joined one from our College Course, that together all three may show honor to Brighton High School."

Charles Hebert of the Co-operative Course is joined by Sophie Gricus of the Commercial Course and Gertrude O'Malley of the College Course in paying homage to our Alma Mater.

"Ere we move out into the ranks of the Alumni, we transmit to our sucessors certain privileges and responsibilities which we have held gladly and faithfully during our Senior year. We relinquish them with the hope that they may regard them as opportunities for serving their school, and, in filling them, add fresh glories to the name of Brighton High.

Let the President of the Girls' Council, Eileen Flynn, invest her successor, Mildred Barber, with the insignia of her office.

Let the President of the Boys' Council, John Donovan, transmit to his Junior officer, Thomas Cain, the symbol of his authority."

Let the President of the Senior Class, Russell Suter, invest the President of the Junior Class, Mildred Barber, with the symbol of his leadership.

Let the Editor of the Imp, Russell Suter, pass on to his successor, John O'Neil, the tokens of his high office.

Let the President of the Dramatic Club, Philip Dorfman, yield his place to the Junior officer, Rita McGrath.

Now shall the Class Marshals escort into the presence of the Spirit our Head Master, Mr. Rich, that he may receive, as a perpetual memorial to the Class of 1938, the gift of our Year Book."

And straightway, the Class Marshals escort Mr. Rich into the presence of the Spirit, where Andrew Jeon, Editor-in-Chief of the "Gothic," presents him with a copy of this book bearing his name in gold and resplendent with its orange and black colors.

Again the Herald resumes:

"Let the Seniors now transmit to the Juniors the guardianship of the National Colors.

And now shall the privilege of protecting the School Colors pass from the Senior Class to the successor."

Then with spirits high, the graduating class descends to the lower terrace and listens to Samuel Gordon as he dedicates the class tree.

Samuel Gordon speaks:

"Mr. Rich, Friends, Teachers, and Classmates: The class of 1938 has met here on this occasion to dedicate this living memorial as a token of our love and respect for our Alma Mater. We hope that the members of our class may grow in high personal achievement and in enduring loyalty to our school, even as this tree will grow in height; and as it spreads forth its leaves to the sun's rays and refreshing rain necessary for its growth, so may we seize the opportunities requisite for our success, and thereby reflect honor upon Brighton High School."

(Tune of "One Song" [chorus] from picture "Snow White")

ALMA MATER

I

Brighton, dear Alma Mater,
Sadly we say adieu.
Guide us, Fostering Mother,
Lighting our way to wisdom and truth.
Our hearts, filled now with yearning
Courage, and will to do,
We pledge to Alma Mater
Forever faithful and true.

II

Brighton, nobly you've taught us
Lessons we'll cherish long;
Victors now you have brought us
To life's wide portals, singing our song.
Onward and ever forward,
Loyal to your dear name,
Brighton, loved by our classmates,
We'll bring you glory and fame.

FLORENCE E. RODENHISER—'38

Class Oration

MR. Rich, members of the faculty, honored guests, and fellow students of the Brighton High School.

We are assembled here for the purpose of honoring those students who have successfully completed three years of academic work at the Brighton High School. These have been years of conscientious study of the subjects which we have chosen to be the foundation for our activities in the years immediately ahead of us. Some of us are planning to go to college, some into business, some directly into the practice of a trade. The school has provided courses to best fit us for entry into whatever field we have chosen, and the result of our studies here will have a great bearing on our future success.

These years here at school have been happy years. Our tasks have been tempered with play. Many of us have taken part in various school activities; some have been members of one or more of the several clubs of the school. Our diverse interests have been satisfied, and we have acquired wholesome hobbies from which we still derive great pleasure and enjoyment.

Throughout our entire stay at Brighton High School, we have been guided and encouraged by the members of our excellent faculty. They have been our friends. To them we owe our deepest gratitude. Not only have they trained us in the particular subjects which they teach, but they have instilled in us principles of right living—principles of honesty and integrity, love of God and love of country, that we may take our place in life as good American citizens. They have given us a foundation upon which to build our future.

The future! What has that in store for us? Are we to be permitted to live a life of peace together with our neighbors, or are we to become a part of a world conflict? Daily, newspapers are covered with screaming headlines telling of events that may affect our future most seriously. At this very moment, wars are raging in countries overseas; men and women are giving their lives for the cause which they think is right. Countries, already powerful, are annexing more territory in an almost insane quest for even greater power. What effect will all of this have upon us? We wonder.

Let us for a moment look into the past. Twenty-four years ago this time there was a class graduating from the Brighton High School, the Class of 1914. We can well imagine that the newspaper headlines of that day bore a striking resemblance to those of this day. Yet, that class of 1914 had little thought of the great calamity that was to come. Those boys and girls had been planning then as we are to-day; but in three short years the unexpected had happened and the United States had declared war, during the course of which many of that very class were to take an important part, were to have the whole normal course of their lives changed.

In spite of the evil forebodings of the present, we, the Class of 1938, as good American citizens, have confidence in our government and know that it will fully appreciate the terrible toll of war and will devise ways and means to honorably effect a peaceful settlement of such of the world controversies as may have to do with the United States, so that we of this generation will be able to live our lives in peace and to derive full benefit from the opportunities afforded us here at Brighton High School; and as we journey through life, let us always remember the motto of this, the Class of 1938: "We do not learn for school, we learn for life."

Respectfully submitted

STANLEY SUMNER, JR., Class Orator

Class History

IN the fall of 1935 our class, 662 strong, was eagerly looking forward to the day when we should debark from our educational voyage for a three years' stay at Brighton High School. For many it was to be the last port of call; others were to go on farther after their work here to greater achievements. Landing was delayed, however, because of the paralysis epidemic and we were held at quarantine for one long month. Finally we were admitted, our pass-ports were accepted, and we began to enjoy the privileges and assume the obligations entailed by membership in this great school. Then began the round of work and fun, of study and recreation, of joys and disappointments, of old friendships strengthened and new ones made. June, 1938, seemed far away, almost too far away to some, but how quickly the three years have passed. As we look back on them, we know on the whole they have been good years. Just how good they have been we may not yet appreciate, but in time we shall.

How important we felt as we filed into the auditorium that day to be greeted by our new commander at our first assembly. With what awe we admired the spacious auditorium and its lofty arched windows! How quietly we listened to the reading of the school regulations, and how promptly we found ourselves, unintentionally of course, breaking one after another. But kindly lieutenant commanders were all about to remind us, so that in time we habitually got to classes on time, remembered to be provided with slips from our teachers to go to various places, and knew what stairways we should and should not use. How amused we were when the story got around about the teacher halting a girl going down the boy's stairway, only to be told by the shy young thing, "I am a teacher." We ourselves couldn't always tell which was which.

In spite of the superior airs of the upper-classes, we held our own and were very proud of our classmates who made a name for themselves in those early days. Six girls were elected to the girls' council, sophomore names appeared on the Honor Roll, Russell Suter exhibited ability as a band leader, while Leo Brunette brought many a victory in Track to our new school. All in all, we were convinced that the class of 1938 was not to be a hindrance but a distinct benefit to Brighton High. Time has proved the truth of our conviction.

In that first year that unforgettable melody, "The Music Goes Round" invaded our halls with a rush. "I push the middle valve down—the music comes out here." Round and round the school it went, up stairway A, down stairway D, sung, hummed and crooned until it was rumored that detention would be the punishment for offenders singing the song in the corridors. However, a new song came to our rescue and banished the offending tune; but not before some of its victims were ready for strait-jackets.

With the spring we were very busy. First came baseball, then the Senior Play, "The Goose Hangs High," which made us eager for the day when we should strut our part on that same stage. How our hearts fluttered as we watched our heroes parading, giving commands, looking so handsome and important on the day of Prize Drill. In the outing we had no part, and on Class Day we were sent home as children are sent to bed when their elders entertain; but inwardly we gloated remembering that time would heal our wounds, and that we, too, would have our day. Before we knew it, closing day came when we might go wherever we cared until the gong should sound in September.

Freedom was all to short, when we found ourselves back ready for inspection for the second year of training. This opening year found us a bit more confident, less awed by our surroundings, able now to peer down on the incoming sophomores with an air of superiority which we hoped concealed our interest and even envy when a Junior boy so far forgot himself as to be attracted to the golden curls or fair skin of one of the school babies.

One of the outstanding events was the day we Juniors were invited to the auditorium to see George Washington in his colonial attire. We sympathized with the first grade child who came home and told his mother, "George Washington was at our school today," then hesitated a moment, looked very puzzled, and added, "I thought he was dead."

With the first crisp, cold days of the fall came the football season and with it many ambitious All-American Brightonites. It was a common sight to see the boys plodding up the hill to the Castle, their football sacks thrown over their shoulders. Captain Bill MacNamara was a familiar figure, also Bud Payne, Harold Hickman, Danny Slason—well, hardly Dan, for he rarely arrived before the bell rang. The team had a good year, though not sensational, winning four out of seven games.

Unfortunately, life is not always sunshine, and so we learned with deep regret of the death of Patrick T. Campbell, superintendent of Boston schools. He was a gentle and helpful adviser to the boys and girls, and he will remain in our memory always as a kindly and a learned man, like our own headmaster who had been associated with Mr. Campbell for many years in Boston Latin School.

But since youth is made for happiness, a stranger to sadness, we soon were caught up in the whirl of Junior elections, and we listened amused and interested to the candidates and the promises of wonderful deeds they would perform if and when elected. Following the example of local colleges where often they elect to the presidency one who has earned fame on the gridiron, we chose Harold Hickman for our President. Russell Suter was chosen Vice President and Eleanor Ross, our Secretary and Treasurer.

Many new organizations were started this year. The Camera Club, headed by Mr. Fickett, provided many snapshots of the pupils which proved a delightful source of interest and fun for everyone. The B. H. S. Patrol was organized to assist in making the boy's lunchroom a better spot; the Sigma Beta Gamma, a sorority for Senior girls, was begun with Miss Rodger as faculty adviser, and lastly the Sigma Beta Beta, a fraternity for boys, headed by our genial history teacher, Mr. Looney, in whose history class we have laughed while we learned. We shall not soon forget the day when the history class was having its usual session of whispering in the absence of the teacher, when some one whispered, "Cheesit, here comes Miss Mayer." A quick hush was followed by a loud laugh as we found the warning had been given by Mr. Looney, coming into the room unheard.

"The Sunbonnet Girl," an operetta by Morgan and Johnson, was presented in the auditorium on an afternoon in March to a large and appreciative audience. We were both amazed and delighted to see the pupils including some of our sophomore girls, Betty Lucas, Theresa Carroll, Mary Carberry, give flawless performances as they danced and sang in their calico dresses and pretty poke bonnets. This passed into history, and came the Imp Show. "Ladies of the Jury" brought much laughter and much applause from us as we watched the Seniors strut their stuff, and realized we were one year nearer to our own senior performance.

As a result of Prize Drill Competition, John Murphy's company took first place and we have never seen anyone so pleased with a victory as he was that day; certainly if a prize were given for the biggest smile, he would have won it.

Came the day that we Juniors had looked forward to since our entrance—"Class Day." The words, themselves, seemed to suggest something beautiful and impressive and it was a proud and thrilled Junior Class that stood silent in the midst of green terraces and watched it celebrated. To begin the ceremony the Herald announced the school song, and both the Senior and Junior Class united in the singing of it. The school colors were passed from the Seniors to the Juniors; the Senior Honor Roll students passed the rope of laurel signifying academic achievement to the Junior Honor Roll students; the Imp bowed its farewell to the Seniors and saluted the Juniors; the councils were left in the keeping of the Juniors. As we held the Brighton colors, a feeling of exaltation swept over us realizing it would soon be our task to uphold the traditions of the school, and to become worthy students of whom Brighton was to be proud. Although it was a tremendous responsibility, we had no fear; we felt ourselves prepared. Graduation followed a few weeks later, and, as the last Senior received his diploma, the class of 1938 came into its own.

Vacation offered a brief period of relaxation to prepare for our strenuous senior year. Often as we enjoyed our freedom, many of us realized it was our last long vacation; we hoped so at least as we looked forward to employment after graduation. September, 1937, found us back in a serious mood, for we were the upper-classmen privileged to view with condescension our less fortunate classmates. What a surprise it was to find that except for an occasional friendly nod, seniors are too busy with their own affairs to think of under classmen. Had we known this in our Sophomore year, we would have been saved many a fancied slight.

The first activity of the Senior year was the Imp Dance, held in the gymnasium, October 29. There we "trucked" and "suzy q'd" to our hearts' content to the orchestras of Benny Goodman and Tommy Dorsay, that is, to recordings of them. They served their purpose very well.

A change in the assemblies was announced at this time by Mr. Rich. The school was grouped into three sections—A, B and C. On successive Mondays each group enjoyed its program, but sometimes we wished we were in another section when a particularly delightful entertainment was reported. Such was the case when a trio from Boston College sang "Woman in the Shoe" and other numbers so perfectly. That assembly was pronounced the best of the year, and section B was the envy of the school.

The football team had rather a disappointing year. Captain Harold Hickman and his team had the proper spirit but luck was against them; but, if it is true that no one defeats a man but himself, the team had a successful season. The track team made up for this first disappointment. Many laurels were won by our "Class A" relay men, Twilly McDermott, Salvatore Costa, MacArdle and Bill Simon—laurels which brought recognition to our school.

School life seemed an eventful, happy time for Seniors as we joined in the year's activities and laughed over the happenings in our clubs and classrooms. There were the delightful meetings of the Commercial Club, the enjoyable trips of the Reading Club, the quiet exhibitions of Mr. Scanlon's tap dancing, and his vocal talents as well; the stories told in Miss O'Neill's French class, Slason's attacks and counter attacks in the history class, those daily setting-up drills and the frequent "dressing-downs," and all those things not in the course of study which prevent school from becoming a bore.

Soon after the new year, elections were the chief topic of conversation. Everyone seemed to be running for something. The lucky ones were as follows:

RUSSELL SUTER	President
JESSIE WYLIE	Vice-President
ELEANOR ROSS	Secretary

Our annual Imp Show proved, without a doubt, the histronic ability of the Seniors. "The Thirteenth Chair" was an excellent play, and the acting was highly satisfactory. Who ever expected to see petite Dorothy Harvey such a dominating figure in her effort to defend her daughter's name? Stanley Sumner in the role of a suitor had excellent technique with "I love you," but practice makes perfect and we are sure he will have improved when he repeats this to the "one and only girl." Marjorie Morrison and Paul Cornet brought dignity and composure to their acting which fitted well their difficult parts. To name individually all our stars would take too long a time; all gave outstanding performances, while congratulations and thanks went to Miss Mayer for her fine directing and her unlimited patience in making this performance a perfect one.

Eagerly we took part in the Minstrel Show presented for the benefit of the Seniors, and again many of our Imp Show stars twinkled brightly as the Darktown Revue danced and sang its way to success.

April 1, our traditional baby day and tramp day, began with enthusiasm as the girls tied hair ribbons on their hair before classes and produced all day suckers. Even the few pupils who regarded the celebration as childish and undignified, finally relented and tied colored paper bows on their pretty curls. In the gymnasium after school the girls romped to their hearts' content in knee length costumes, hair ribbons and ankle socks, while the boys could be as ragged as they wished, to make up for the later occasion when formal clothes would make them so miserable, but oh, so handsome. Bud Payne drew the biggest laugh when he arrived in a battered plug hat and tattered cut-away suit of garish black and white. Thelma Chute and Paul Mann were voted the best and worst dressed, respectively.

The year was coming to an end all too quickly as we turned our thoughts to the Prom, the Outing, Class Day, and Graduation. Out of several mottos the class selected for its own, "Non scholae sed vitae discimus," (we learn not for school but for life). This will mean more, perhaps, in the future than it does today. It might have been better had we chosen it our sophomore year. There is a suggestion for the class of 1941.

On May 17, the Seniors gathered at the Hotel Bradford in all the glory of youth and the glitter of style and elegance. We hardly knew our own friends. Two rooms were reserved, one for dancing, one for refreshments. Everything combined to make it the most perfect event of our school career.

For a second time we took part in Class Day exercises on June 14, but now we were seniors, and it took on a new meaning, a deeper significance. The girls were dressed a la mode in brightly colored gowns, and the boys in white flannels, blue coats and orange ties. The azure blue of the sky and the glossy green grass of the school terraces formed a perfect setting. After the various groups turned over to the Juniors the responsibility which had been the Seniors' for a year, a serious mood came over us and we admit without shame that a lump came in the throat as we gazed up at our beautiful "Alma Mater," which we should soon leave behind. At the outing we had been carefree children, but Class Day brought to us a realization that carefree days were passing.

Graduation at the Capitol Theatre on the morning of June 17 was the final scene. As we listened to the words of praise and advice, sang together for the last time, and took our well-earned diplomas, the cu[illegible] little act in this great school.

When our good ship ag[illegible] us to other places of training and study, m[illegible] will take our places as civilians in the o[illegible] years may bring, we cannot forget [illegible] diverge, but we shall meet again; i[illegible]

Music Appreciation Club

WITH the coming of 1938, a new club was formed at Brighton High School — the Music Appreciation Club. Its purpose is three-fold — first, to provide a club where fine music may be listened to and enjoyed; second, to offer a means of familiarizing students with the motifs and ideas of the music they hear; and, third, to provide an association where students already interested in music may exchange ideas and opinions.

At the present time membership has been restricted to students in the Junior and Senior classes in order to avoid the complication of too rapid growth during the club's initial year. However, since this club offers such educational opportunities it is hoped that with the coming year it will be possible to make the facilities of the Music Appreciation Club available to the entire student body.

The club, with Shirley Lubell as president, Gladys Damon secretary, Charlotte Slater treasurer, has been under the guidance of Miss McNamara to whose efforts during this first year the club is deeply grateful.

Programs at past meetings have included such pieces as the Sibelius tone-poem "Finlandia"; the principal arias from Wagner's operas "Tannhauser" and "Lohengrin," as sung by the famous Metropolitan Opera star Kirstin Flagstad; the "Eighth Symphony" of Shubert, best known as the "Unfinished."

We, who leave the Music Appreciation Club this year, will none the less, take with us bright and happy memories and in their place leave our best wishes for happier and more successful days for the club. In later years, when visiting alumnae, we hope to see a large and well-chosen library of records, which will afford future students moments of the purest happiness the world has known—the happiness of music.

Sigma Beta Gamma

President	Phyllis Davis
Vice-President	Elinor Murphy
Treasurer	Geraldine McGillicuddy
Secretary	Eileen Bernhard
Faculty Member	Miss Mayer

WITH the departure of the class of 1938, so also another year has departed in the annals of the Sigma Beta Gamma. This is a senior girls' sorority consisting of fifteen members. They were: Elinor Murphy, Eileen Bernhard, Geraldine McGillicuddy, Gertrude O'Malley, Jessie Wylie, "Peg" Cody, "Jo" Raneri, Barbara Cochrane, Edith Caputo, Mildred Sullivan, Eleanor Ross, Elaine Emerson, Dorothy Harvey, Mary Crowley, and Phyllis Davis. Miss Mayer, busy as she is, graciously consented to be our faculty adviser, and she has given us some invaluable suggestions.

Twice a month, meetings were held at the homes of the members in alphabetical order. The business of the club took up the first half of the meetings and the second half was given over to social enjoyment and delicious refreshments.

The activities of the club have all been highly successful. Baskets were distributed at Thanksgiving, and also at Christmas, when we co-operated with the Sigma Beta Beta. The members have also enjoyed several parties, a formal dance, roller skating, bowling, and horseback riding.

We wish at this time to welcome next year's members with the hope that they will be worthy of the honor bestowed upon them, and have a successful year.

PHYLLIS DAVIS, President.

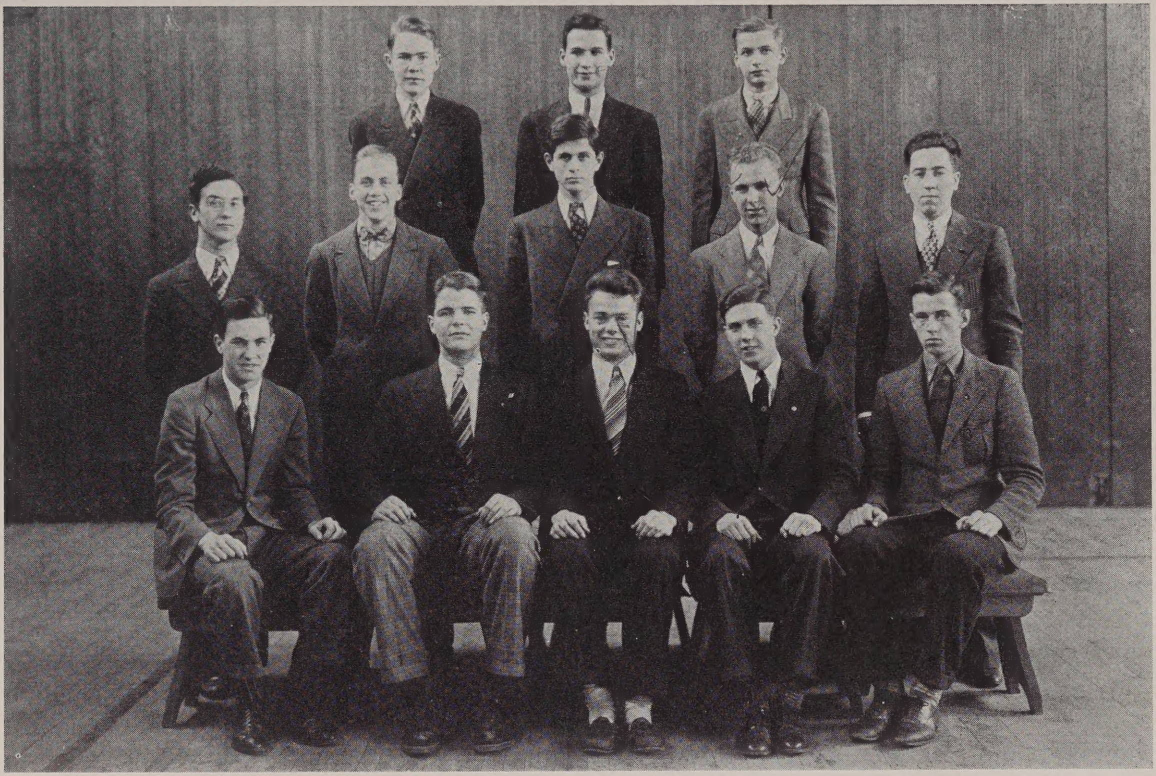
Sigma Beta Beta



Ex-Officio President	Mr. H. T. Rich
Faculty Adviser	Mr. Looney
President	Harold Hickman
Vice-President	William Payne
Director	Russell Suter
Secretary	Julius Chesky
Treasurer	Joseph Shea

THE sixth chapter of the Sigma Beta Beta has concluded a very successful year. Prominent among the 1938 members were: Harold Hickman, William Payne, Stanley Sumner, Joseph Shea, Russell Suter, Frank Levy, Joseph Volante, Richard Mulroy, Robert Plummer, Michael Mayer, Kenneth Gordon, Edward Sinatra, Edward McDonald, Andrew Jeon, and Julius Chesky.

Meetings were held every week at the homes of the members in alphabetical order. When the business of the club was completed, the "fellows" relaxed and enjoyed themselves with light stories and "eats" as the boys quaintly put it.

At Christmas time, the Club united with the Sigma Beta Gamma and distributed baskets to the needy persons in the Allston-Brighton district. The Club also ran a very successful dance in the school gym appropriately named the "Fraternity Frolic," Brighton's first seventeen-cent dance.

Throughout the school year, this organization's aim was to further the interests of the school, which met with a large degree of success.

This year's fraternity extends to the Sigma Beta Beta of 1939 its best wishes for a prosperous year.

HAROLD HICKMAN, President.

Reading Club

THE Reading Club had its first meeting in room 210, early in October, to elect its two officers, President and Secretary-Treasurer, under the capable supervision of Miss Bailey and Miss Sullivan. The officers elected were:

President	EDITH CAPUTO
Secretary-Treasurer	GERALDINE McGILLICUDDY

The Club is made up of a select group of girls whose average is no lower than "B" in Junior year English. At the close of each year, junior girls having this requirement are invited to become members for the following year.

Meetings are held in the Library every second and fourth Tuesday of the month. Selections by well-known authors are read, games are played, and refreshments served.

During this year we spent a delightful Saturday in Salem visiting the House of Seven Gables and other historical places. Many delightful programs have been given, one of the most interesting being the talk on Oriental Poetry by Mr. Strother, leader of our School Orchestra. Miss Wilson, domestic-science instructor, also favored us by showing moving-pictures of her Western trip made last summer.

Mr. Rich, our Head Master, often attended our meetings, and later in the year, gave a most interesting talk on Translations from Latin poets, notably Horace.

Altogether, the year of 1938 has been a most enjoyable one for the members of the Reading Club.

EDITH CAPUTO, President

Dramatic Club

President	PHILLIP J. DORFMAN
Vice-President	RITA MAGRATH
Treasurer	RHODA FREEDMAN
Secretary	ELIZABETH DOBRATZ

MANY applicants for membership in the Dramatic Club stormed the doors of Room 226 this year. Incidentally, the number was so large that the tryouts extended over a period of weeks. Finally, after a long and tiresome process, the officers and others on the committee selected and informed the fortunate persons. The unfortunate ones were told that they would be listed for future admittance.

The club worked under the leadership of the third boy to hold the office of president since its inception. David Zeitz presided in the year 1930, Jeffrey MacLeod in 1937, and Phillip Dorfman in 1938.

The meetings of the club were scheduled for the first and third Tuesdays of each month. Business, entertainment, refreshments, and dramatic interpretations were enjoyed at different meetings.

The officers and members are grateful to Mr. McInerny for his cooperation in directing the club, as he has done since the club was organized ten years ago.

PHILLIP DORFMAN, President

Girls' Council

President	Eileen Flynn
Vice-President	Mildred Barber
Secretary	Margaret Helmar
Treasurer	Elizabeth Volante
Faculty Adviser	Miss Barbara Wilson

THE Girls' Council, the governing body for the girls of the school, has completed a very successful year. To Miss Wilson, the faculty adviser, the Council owes a debt of gratitude for her willing and generous cooperation.

Distinguished as members during the past year are: Eileen Flynn, Margaret Helmar, Edith Caputo, Ruth Goldman, Patricia Bell, and Nellie Montgomery, who represent the Senior class; Mildred Barber, Elizabeth Volante, June Miller, Ann Morris, Elizabeth Dobbratz, and Margaret Maguire, the Junior Councillors; Sheila Christy, Sheila McGillicuddy, Marjorie Walsh, Roberta Raper, Natalie Cummings, and Theresa Plakias, representatives of the Sophomore class.

Delegates were sent to the conventions held for the Student Councils of Eastern Massachusetts. As a result of one of the conventions, plans have been made to publish a Student Guide Book, telling the history of our school, its many activities, and a directory to enable pupils who are new to the school to become acquainted with the building.

For many years the Girls' Council has efficiently and effectively performed its duties. Its purposes make it an integral part of the school.

EILEEN FLYNN, President

Boys' Council

President	John Donovan	Vice-President	Thomas Cain
Secretary	Arthur Carreiro	Treasurer	Paul Mitchell
Assistant Secretary	Sidney Goodman	Assistant Treasurer	Daniel Leone

THE Boys' Council is the representative council for the boys of the school. Its purpose is to bring together the student body of the boys and the faculty, to keep up the good name of the Brighton High School, and in the words of Mr. Fuller, the faculty adviser, "to make a good school better."

At present the Council consists of twenty-three members, who are chosen as representatives by their respective classes.

Under Mr. Fuller's excellent guidance, the Council discussed many problems confronting the boys throughout the school year..

On February twenty-eighth, the Council conducted an assembly wholly for the entertainment of the boys of the school. Mr. Brigham, the Coordinator, kindly consented to give his well-known "Winter Camping" lecture.

On the evening of March twenty-ninth in the school auditorium, the Council and the Senior Class conducted a successful minstrel show, the proceeds of which went towards the Senior and Junior outing at Nantasket.

The customary joint party of the Girls' and Boys' Councils known as "Tramp and Baby Day" was held in the school gymnasium on April first.

On leaving office, the President and the senior members sincerely hope that the future members of this organization will meet with as much success as we enjoyed during this past year.

JOHN DONOVAN, President

Mathematics Club

President	MARJORIE MORRISON
Vice President	CONSTANCE ATTRIDGE
Secretary	BARBARA MYERS
Treasurer	ROBERT EISNER

THE year 1938 has seen the most successful and profitable year the Mathematics Club has ever experienced: successful in that more pupils than ever joined the club, and profitable in that these pupils have realized that some fun can be obtained in the study of Mathematics.

So many pupils wanted to join that the number had to be limited. It was very interesting to note the large number of enthusiastic Juniors who intermingled with the more serious Seniors.

One meeting was entirely devoted to a quiz contest in which the President took the part of "Professor Quiz," and the contestants scored according to their answers.

A very interesting part of another meeting included a charade. Two rather humorous members performed the "rithm" syllable of logarithm by "trucking," all of which proves that the most popular dance craze of the year can be applied to Mathematics.

Mr. Leary, who is the head of the Mathematics Department, was kind enough to give the club a most interesting account of the Greek mathematicians.

Thanks and a great deal of credit are due Miss Catherine Sullivan for making these meetings so enjoyable and for being such a good sport. Our most sincere wish is that the future members may enjoy this club, under Miss Sullivan's able supervision as much as we have.

MARJORIE MORRISON, President

French Club

President ....Ruth Goldman Vice-President .... Esther Aspesi
Secretary .... Eleanor Ross Treasurer .... Anne Morris

WELL, the exceptionally large group pictured above does, "N'est-ce pas, mes amis?" We all enjoyed ourselves tremendously during the 1937-38 season as members of "Le Cercle Francais" under the able direction of Miss Cummings, who is back after a year's study in Europe.

In December, the entire school had the opportunity to attend a moving picture of Hector Malot's famous story, "Sans Famille," presented under the auspices of the French Club. Many of us had read the story in our French classes and once again we laughed and wept with Remi, the little orphan boy, as we watched him in his adventures through France.

In February, the French Club had a meeting in which the entertainment was furnished by two skilful pianists, Mademoiselle Rachel Aubut and Mademoiselle Francoise Aubut. We had great fun, singing French songs with these beautiful and gifted artists.

In April, the members went to the Boston Art Museum where they visited the French Rooms and saw a few masterpieces of Houdon, Renoir, Monet, and other French artists and sculptors.

For the last meeting of "Le Cercle Francais," we had tea in the French manner at the Lafayette where we had a chance to use our French when ordering from the "garcons".

The "thirty-eighters" now bid "au revoir", leaving the undergraduates to maintain the high standard of "Notre Cercle Francais".

RUTH GOLDMAN, President.

German Club

President	Gertrude O'Malley
Vice-President	Dorothea Hiltz
Secretary	Geraldine McGillicuddy
Treasurer	Sheila McGillicuddy

WITH the passing of each year the "Deutsches Verein" increases further its store of pleasant memories to which 1938 added many.

Although our meetings were few because of the many and varied tasks of our friend and adviser, Miss Mayer, nevertheless every meeting was a delightful and profitable one.

At our December meeting, the "Weihnachtsmann" generously showered his gifts on all the members, and the amusing skit, beautiful carols and delicious German refreshments all helped to keep the Christmas spirit.

In February a most important occasion was the visit of the Vienna-Mozart Boys Choir whose host the German Club had the pleasure of being. After their performance for the whole school, the boys joined the club in an informal party at which the members found out how much German they could yet learn.

Honorable mention must be given to the sophomores who have had a very active part in all the meetings.

The German Club sincerely hopes it may continue being the fine organization it has proved itself to be and heartily wishes the coming years will be as happy as this last.

GERTRUDE O'MALLEY, President

Home Economics Club

President	Brona Stremeckus
Vice-President	Rita Gannon
Secretary	Shirley Belansus
Treasurer	Mary Capisto

WITH the passing of 1938, so also passes another active and successful year of the Home Economics Club.

Its purpose is to familiarize the girls with the principles of Home Economics and its value to every one. Membership being limited to students taking Dressmaking, Foods or Salesmanship and wish to further their knowledge along these lines.

During the course of the year, we have had many interesting and delightful meetings on poise, manners, proper dress and other subjects of interest. At one of the meetings Miss Sylvester gave a demonstration on the art of makeup and hair arrangement. At another Miss Wilson graciously consented to show the members of the club moving pictures, which she took on her trip west the previous year. Our Christmas meeting was one grand party. After entertainment and refreshments, gifts donated by individual members of the club were sent to the children at the Community House.

Under the most able guidance of Miss Sylvester, we have succeeded in developing a spirit of good fellowship and cooperation throughout the club, and we are sure that this feeling will always reign supreme in the club.

In future years we hope to see the Home Economics Club of the Brighton High School surpass itself.

BRONA STREMECKUS, President

Glee Club

THE Glee Club elected no officers this year, since the meetings do not follow the plan of other clubs. Every Thursday afternoon was devoted to singing, without formal organization.

Mr. T. Francis Burke, Assistant Director of Music, was our director. He is a fine musician, and has succeeded in discovering a great deal of talent in the school.

The Glee Club has sung group songs at various assemblies during the year. An Octet was formed which sang at assemblies and, at Christmas, sang through the corridors, accompanied by a portable organ. The Octet also appeared at the B. H. S. Evening School Graduation. It was composed of Albina Sweeney, Betty Lucas, Agnes MacLennon, Lillian Raskow, Harry Mawhinney, Clarence Jones, James Murray, Ellis Tallen, Irwin Metcalfe, Thomas Gordon, and Robert Burke. The personnel varied at times.

Encouraged by the success of last year's attempt in the entertainment field, the Club decided it could put on a more difficult operetta. After months of rehearsal during the winter, Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado" was presented in the spring. Due to the effort of the cast, the operetta was a great success.

We Seniors must now say farewell to our happy Glee Club days, with regret. We carry with us the memory of many delightful hours of good companionship. We wish the best of luck and many prosperous performances to the future Glee Clubs.

AUDREY REDMOND

Guides

THREE years ago an organization known as the Guides was started at Brighton High School for the express purpose of directing visitors about the building. Hundreds of people from all over the country have already inspected our unusually attractive edifice, many of whom thought it to be a famous cathedral, or university. Consequently, the Guides were kept very active escorting visitors through the interior of the building, proudly relating its history and answering numerous questions.

The boys in this selective group, appointed by Mr. Tully, are ones that have a free period in their program to devote to this particular duty.

The courtesy has left a lasting impression on the visitors to our school which, in turn, has added prestige to the school and the students.

The senior boys who have devoted their study periods to guide work during the past year are: C. Badavas, D. Leone, R. Maki, R. Suter, B. Doherty, R. Entwisle, T. Manning, J. Chesky, M. Hill, J. Donovan, and E. Pearson.

Kappa Kappa Alpha

President	Marjorye Buchanan
Vice-President	Lydia Cummins
Secretary	Janet Humphreys
Treasurer	Dorothy Clark
Club Reporter	Edith Linn

WITH the kind cooperation of Mr. Rich, a new sorority has been organized in the Brighton High School. The membership consists of representatives of the alumnae, and of all classes: alumnae for their wise counsel, and sophomores in order that they may sooner acquire the proper school spirit. We hope to create a closer feeling among all the classes. Meetings are held weekly at the homes of the different members. At the end of each year, the alumnae of the previous year drop out, and new members are chosen to take their places. The rest of the club remains intact. This year's members were Dorothy Bergman, Ruth Cheevers, Albina Sweeney, Shirley Humphreys, Rita Gannon, Gloria Humphreys, Mary Roy, Mildred Nash, and Phyllis Saunders. Mrs. Chadbourne is adviser and sponsor of the club, and we have found her sage counsel and enthusiastic aid indispensable.

BRIGHTON HIGH SCHOOL

President	Serafino Trainito
Treasurer	Martha Tapas
Secretary	Elizabeth Martin
Librarian	Charles Watson

FOR the season of 1937-38, the Brighton High School Orchestra, under the skillful direction of Mr. Dana Strother and the keen surveillance of Mr. Warren C. Burnham, has achieved high honors in the annals of the school.

It consists of two pianos, four trumpets, four violins, two metaphones, three clarinets, two saxaphones, a bass, and snare drums. It assembles every Monday in the gymnasium for about an hour of strenuous practice. Present in this group are a number of talented students.

Under the excellent leadership of Mr. Strother, the orchestra has been able to learn several compositions of the old masters, Wagner, Shubert, and Verdi.

SERAFINO TRAINITO, President.

Senior Play

On March 18 the Senior Class presented a thrilling mystery, "The Thirteenth Chair." Edward Wales, excellently portrayed by Kaston Adams, is murdered at a dinner party given by the wealthy and prominent Crosbys. The Crosbys, who are a very happily-married couple, were played by Marjorie Morrison and Paul Cornet. Stanley Sumner was the young lover and Mildred Nash, the lovely object of his affections.

So well did Dorothy Harvey play the part of the little Irish medium whose daughter is accused of murder that she actually shed tears. Pasquale Milillo was the forceful and threatening police inspector, with Roderick MacLeod and Paul Mann as his assistants. Edwin Keyes was a perfect butler to the tips of his sideburns.

Edith Linn was the attractive wife of capable Daniel O'Connell. Leo Brown was a most protective big brother to pretty Marie Sullivan. Marjorye Buchanan portrayed a banker's charming daughter, and Jessie Wylie was a very skeptical guest who did everything in her power to make things uncomfortable for the medium. Philip Dorfman was so realistic as the murderer, whose life had been smashed by others, that the dialogue stopped while the audience applauded.

We want to thank Jeannette Chambers, Geraldine Holland, Harold Hickman, Joseph Cloherty, Edward Sinatra, Ellis Tallen, and Dorothy Clark for taking care of the prompting and properties. Much praise is due to the competent Miss Mayer for her usual production of an excellent play, and Mr. Burnham, who supervised the lighting effects. Is it not sufficient to say that the audience screamed when the ghost appeared?

MARJORIE MORRISON

Camera Club

President	Roy Baltozer
Vice-President	John Erickson
Treasurer	Wilbur Kilsoe
Faculty Adviser	Mr. Edward Fickett

THE Camera Club was originated in October, 1937 for the purpose of furthering the general knowledge of the students in the various methods of taking better pictures, developing film, printing, and enlarging.

Proceeding to carry out the purpose of the club, the adviser, Mr. Fickett, gave a series of talks, explaining the camera, the film, and what happens when a picture is taken. These lectures were followed by teaching the members the proper method of printing. After mastering the printing process, the club learned how to develop negatives. In March, Mr. Riley donated the material for an enlarger which the Camera Club built and used producing praiseworthy enlargements.

Social activities have been numerous, and the most outstanding were the school exhibition, the visit to the Camera Exposition at the Hotel Brunswick in April, and a roller-skating party. The exhibition of pictures taken, developed, printed, and enlarged was particularly interesting. Some very good "candid camera" photographs taken about the school were on display, although portraits, landscapes, interiors, still life, action, table tops, and "odd-angle" photographs were in the majority.

Plans for the future are that the present members of the Camera Club will carry on the good work by continuing to keep the club in existence and by furthering the instruction of new students in the art of photography. One has a satisfied feeling as he thinks of the help which the club has given the students to produce more excellent photographs than they were able to before they entered the Brighton High School Club.

ROY BALTOZER, President

Art Club

President	Eleanor Ross
Vice-President	Thelma Chute
Secretary	Edith Schneider
Treasurer	Evelyn Byer

UNDER the talented and willing leadership of Miss Glennon and Mr. Midman, our faculty advisers, our club enjoyed a very successful year.

The Art Club is not for individual accomplishment, but more for cultural enlargement. Because of our varied abilities, we confined our activities to visits of art interest. Trips were made once a month, on the first Monday.

Mr. Cyrus Dallin's studio in Arlington was one of our most interesting visits, while we also thoroughly examined the Herald Traveler Builldling, and the Gardner and Fine Arts Museums.

Our group activities consisted of copper embossing, and of printing and hand painting Christmas Cards, the proceeds of which gladdened some little hearts through Post Santa.

Though meetings were irregular, those who wished, still continued in pastels, charcoal, and water colors.

Mr. Dallin gave us some advice, while we were at his studio, which applies not only to those who are inclined towards Art, but for all Young Americans: "The Youth of today must realize that it is study and background that helps to build for the future."

ELEANOR ROSS, President

B. H. S. Patrol

FOR the second consecutive year, this new organization has made its appearance under the name B. H. S. Patrol. Mr. Leary, the teacher, with most excellent ideas on discipline, was its organizer.

The patrol consists of twelve boys, who are either drill captains, good athletes, or good all round students.

The duties of this group are to keep order not only in the lunchroom, but throughout the school, and to usher at such times as Mr. Rich and Mr. Leary see fit.

A marked improvement has been noticed of the conduct, and cleanliness throughout the school and lunchroom.

May the B. H. S. Patrol of the years to come keep to the high standards that have been established by this present patrol.

Phillip Dorfman was elected Captain of the Patrol. Max Carter, Buddy Payne, Michael Corcoran, were chosen to assist him. The following boys were elected to assist the Captain and his staff: Victor Frankovitz, Matt Mullen, Stanley Sumner, Edward McDonald, Francis Hogan, Francis Sullivan, John Mitchell, William Simon, and Joseph Madden.

The captain and his staff wish to extend their thanks to the boys, and other patrol leaders who helped to further the achievements of the patrol.

PHILLIP J. DORFMAN, Captain

Band

BRIGHTON HIGH SCHOOL

THE 1937-38 band has proven itself to be one of the finest that has ever been organized at Brighton High School. This, we believe, is due in a large measure to the interest and co-operative effort of the boys, all of whom have practised faithfully, always keeping in mind the idea of making this Brighton's finest band.

Much credit is due Mr. Sordillo, who is the assistant director of music in the Boston Public Schools, and Mr. Dowell, who is the teacher in charge of the band's activities. We also wish to express our gratitude to Mr. Gardner, instructor of the drums, Mr. Patch, instructor of the brass instruments, and Mr. Barrett, instructor of the woodwind instruments.

The band has been meeting on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday mornings. Tuesdays have been given over to instruction periods; on Thursdays the entire band meets for a rehearsal in the assembly hall, and Fridays have been given over to marching practise in the gymnasium.

The officers selected to lead the band this year were:

Captain	STANLEY SUMNER, JR.
First Lieutenant	FRANK FALLABELLA
Second Lieutenants	CHARLES BADAVAS, KASTAN ADAMS

The band has had the opportunity to play before the faculty and student body in the assembly hall, to take part in the Brighton Night School graduation exercises, to march and play during the Prize Drill competition, and to participate in the Street Parade.

Great interest and enthusiasm has been shown by all members, especially those newcomers, who have come from various other schools. We wish to express our sincerest wish for the success of all future bands of Brighton High School.

STANLEY SUMNER, JR., Captain.

CAPTAIN ROBERT V. DALLAHAN, U. S. M. C.

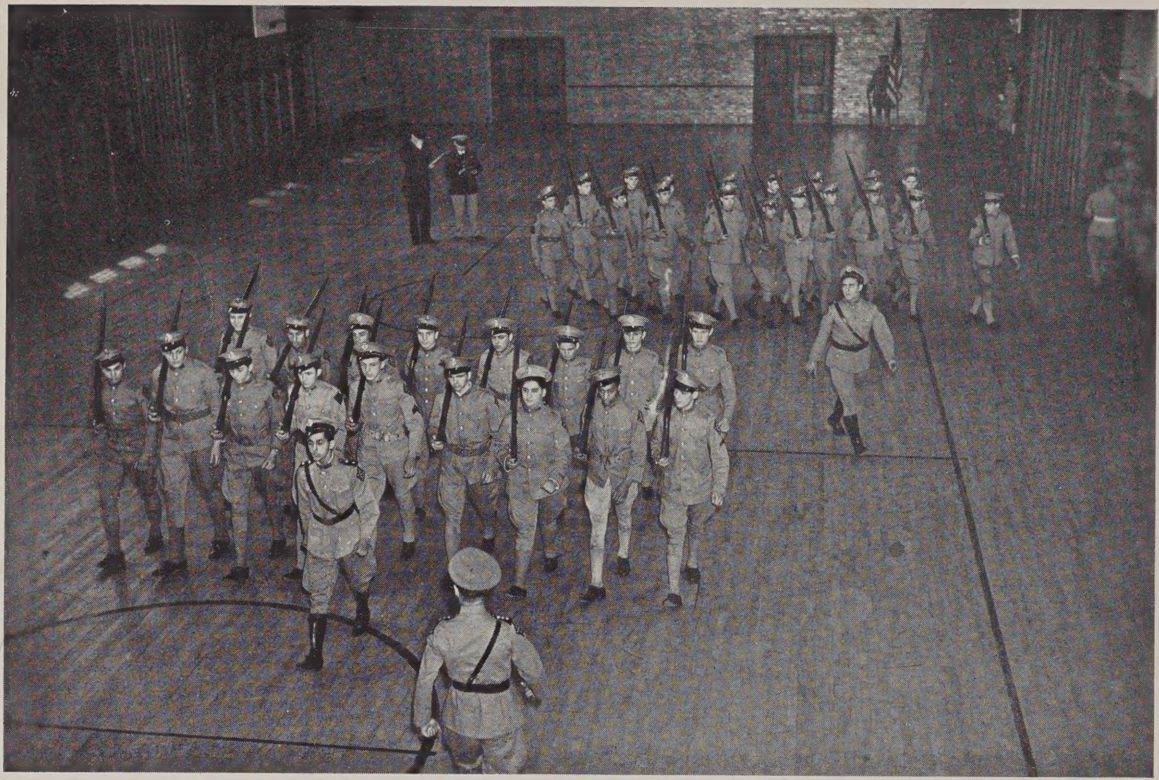
of 1938

Prize Drill



On Friday, May 6, the many long hours spent in wearily tramping back and forth culminated in that all important event, the annual Prize Drill.

Shortly after its opening the competition was transferred from the garage yard to the gym because of the inevitable rain. This transfer necessitated the omission of the usual preview of the street parade. Instead of marching around the front of the school, to the back yard to hear the judge's decisions, the cadets formed in the gym to hear the following announcement:

1st prize, Colonel Stanley Gird; 2nd, Lt. Colonel Craft; 3rd, Major Serafino Trainito; 4th Major William Simon; 5th Major Joseph Coronella. Captain Dallahan awarded another Majorship to John Foynes, for his excellent work throughout the year.

The officer's staff was composed of: M. Maloof, Leo Brown, C. Hebert, John Hale, Edward McDonald, J. T. Madden, Francis Hogan, J. Mitchell, and Philip Dorfman.

In the manual of arms competition the following were awarded prizes: H. Hackett, C. Dale, D. Vella, J. Ray, C. Henault, W. McInerney, F. McNamara, Nadeau, Melchionne, Cain, and Loughran.

The battalion commanders for the day were: Edward Pearson, and S. Cammarata.

The band proved by its performance in the gym that it was one of the best seen in Brighton.

We close with the hope that this military training will never be used in helping one country war against another.

Track

THIS year's track team, one of the largest ever to represent Brighton High School, gained much prominence for itself as it earned a high rating in the scholastic competitions. Much credit for our success is to be accorded to our excellent coach, Mr. Scanlon.

Brighton's crack relay team, composed of MacDermott, Costa, Hickman and Simon, undefeated all season, met their Waterloo, when the Trade School speedsters beat them to the tape by a whisker in the Reggies. With McArdle filling in for Hickman, our fast stepping boys paced the field in the Northeastern University meet, and added a few more medals to their collection. The Class C relay team, Kelly, Centola, Driscoll and Segal, another championship aggregation, mowed down all opponents, only to spoil an undefeated season by being disqualified in the Reggies.

The Eastern Seaboard Relay Carnival came, and found our two teams both running on the heels of the Worcester Commerce champs.

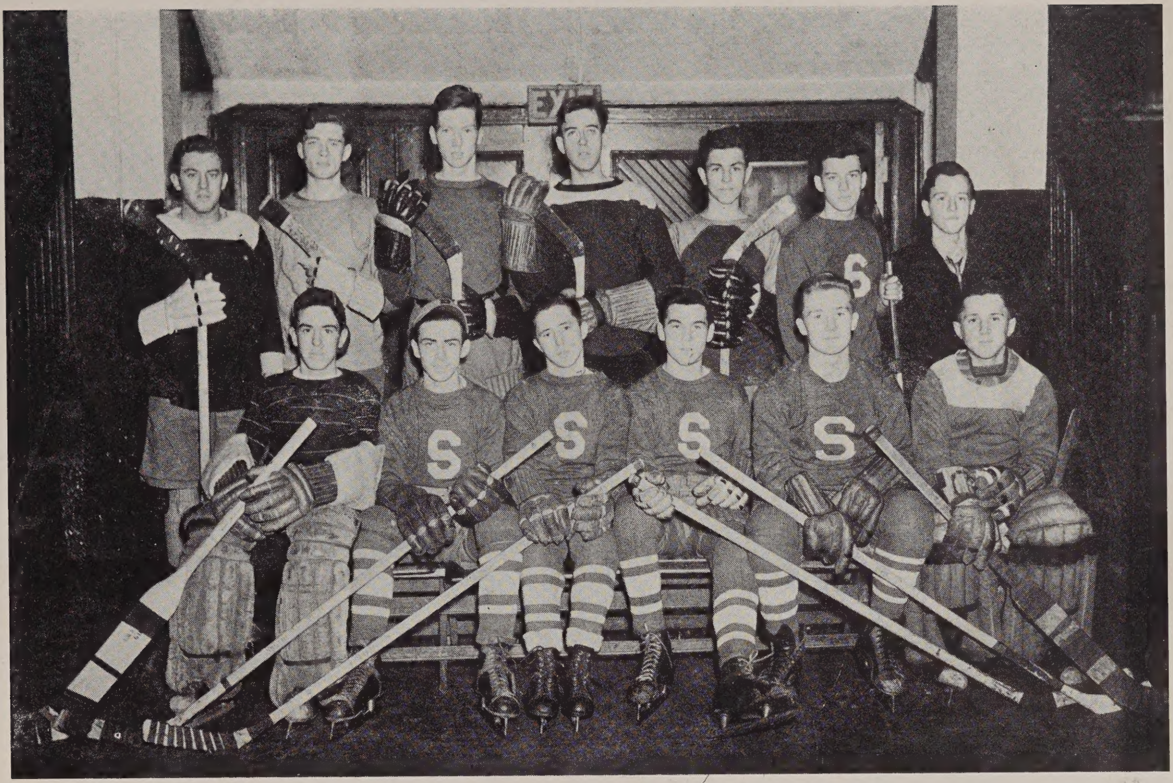
The District Dash Crowns were won by MacDermott in Class A, Segal in Class C, and Feinman in Class D. Segal turned in his best performance, and chalked up a new record for the Meet.

MacDermott was nosed out at the tape by Taylor in the Reggies; Simon lost his shoe, but went on to get fourth; and Segal, undefeated for two seasons, bowed to the inevitable, and was nipped at the tape, to end the indoor track season.

Although the team will lose Captain Eliot Segal, William MacDermott, Salvatore Costa, Joseph Shea, Henry McArdle and Harold Hickman, some of the leading point getters, by graduation, some of the returning stars who will shine brightly next year are: William Simon, John Kelly, Lawrence Cugini, Harold Feinman, Bert Weiner, Philip Centola, Theodore Noke, David Winchester, Donald Romano, Herbert Lotow, Adolph DiRocco, Edward Burke, Francis Hogan and William Driscoll.

CAPTAIN ELIOT SEGAL

Hockey



ALTHOUGH the Brighton High School Hockey team did not win all of its games, it made a splendid showing, and the boys proved to be fine sportsmen. In behalf of Captain Foynes and the team, I wish to extend thanks for the loyal support of the lads and lassies of the Brighton High. By their purchasing of tickets, they helped the team gain admittance into the Arena. I think full credit should be given to Captain Foynes and Frank Fellabella for their untiring efforts in organizing an independent school league.

There were three games, Brighton winning one and losing two. The star of the games was Fellabella, who scored two of the total three points. Robsham scored the other point. The first string consisted of Foynes, Fellabella, and Robsham. The defense, Carrol and Hurley, should also be complimented for their good work. In the goal, Kidack made a splendid showing and lived up to Brighton High standards. The others who should be proud of their work are Collins, Carney, and Bowen as forwards, Brunette and Loughran as defense men, and Phillips, who surprised many by his fast stops and quick thinking in the goal.

With graduation approaching, Brighton High School will be very fortunate since only three regulars are leaving. Even if next year's team doesn't win every game, they will leave everybody in the Arena saying, "What fine sportsmen and what a fine spirit the Brighton Team has."

With these words we leave you and again from the very bottom of our hearts we say, "Thank you, Brighton High, for your co-operation."

J. P. DALEY, Manager.

FEBUOY

Baseball

PROSPECTS appeared to be very bright this season when a very ambitious group of eighty or ninety candidates reported to Coach Scanlon. There was a veteran returning to every position and uniforms were distributed for the first practice session at Roger's Park.

The first game of the season was played with Trade at Roger's, and it was here that the team showed some promise of its potential power. Pat Hurley, pitching his first game for Brighton, completely shackled the Trade batters allowing but three hits. Brighton made fifteen hits for their twelve runs. The score was Brighton 12, Trade 1.

The next game with Boston English was also played at Roger's. The game was called in the fifth because of rain which had been falling steadily all through the fourth. It was a rather doubtful ending and Brighton lost 5-1.

The Brighton vs. Commerce game, a battle that has built up a very intense rivalry, was a hard fought, exciting game, Harold Hickman pitching a steady game, and seldom getting into any grave difficulties. A sensational stop by Carney at short, and two Commerce runs cut off at the plate were the fielding highpoints of the game. The final score was Brighton 4, Commerce 1. The lineup was as follows:

Carney	Shortstop	Chesky	First base
Kidik	Right field	O'Toole	Second base
Donovan	Center field	Rubbico	Third base
O'Hara	Left field	Hickman	Pitcher
McDonald	Catcher	Milizia	Right field

After this beginning, I am sure that the team will have a most successful season.

Edward S. McDonald,
Captain.

ALMA MATER

Tune: "The Battle Hymn of the Republic"
Words by J. Marjorie Bailey

I

Alma Mater, we came bringing dreams and visions of our youth;
Eagerly we crossed thy threshold, young adventurers seeking Truth:
Here we gained a loftier purpose, here our challenge found reply
We thank thee, Brighton High.

Chorus

Cheer, O cheer for Brighton High School
Honor to the Black and Orange!
Sing her praise in joyful chorus,
And cheer for Brighton High!

II

Proud above the verdant terrace thy majestic towers rise,
And we hold thy mystic beauty white before our yearning eyes:
Ere we turn with high endeavor to the new roads we must try,
We praise thee, Brighton High.

III

Thine the shining goal before us, Alma Mater of our hearts;
Ours the guidance of thy wisdom when we seek life's busy marts;
May we strive by our achievements thy fair name to glorify:
We love thee, Brighton High.

TO BRIGHTON HIGH

Music by Joseph H. Gildea

Words by Elvira B. Smith

I

Hail, dear Alma Mater,
Mother most benign,
Dwelling here in glory
In this home of thine:
Here our Country's Father
Viewed our landscape fair
Saw our Brighton hill-tops
And Charles River there.

Chorus

All thy children hail thee
Brighton High, we love,
Nigh a century pointing
To far heights above.

II

Hail, most noble Mother,
Whose home draws all eyes
As did fair Athena's
'Neath the Attic skies
Virgin wise, she summoned
All the maids and youth,
Flower of ancient Hellas
Lovers all of Truth.

Chorus

All Hail, noble Brighton
On thy hill-slope green
To thy shrine our chosen
Come with earnest mien.

III

Hail to thee, loved Brighton
Proud of thy past fame.
Thou hast nurtured thousands
Who revere thy name,
In the years approaching
May thy children come,
Like a mighty army,
Up to thy new home.

Chorus

Hail, Oh, glorious Brighton
Pride of every heart,
Lifting high thy banner
Doing well thy part.
